I am a passionate children's physiotherapist with a wealth of specialist experience.

At the centre of what I do, providing the highest level of care to families is of key importance to me. With every therapy I put in place, I constantly monitor that it is having the uppermost impact, and I am not afraid to change support in order to achieve this, through knowledge and independent research.

The key attributes that I bring include being an excellent team member, who is able to communicate well with peers, families and clients. I bring a passionate, committed and positive approach to my job role and actively embrace new initiatives. I am open and honest, particularly excelling at listening to clients carefully before looking at all the options available to them. I thrive on undertaking new challenges and hold myself to a high professional standard.
